

EMMA Update: Tower Health/Penn Medicine Alliance

February 10, 2023

Tower Health and Penn Medicine have mutually and amicably agreed to no longer pursue the strategic alliance between our two health systems. Under current market conditions, both organizations feel it is necessary to focus on their individual organizational goals and community needs. While we will not move forward with a formal strategic alliance, Tower Health and Penn Medicine will continue to work together in areas of mutual interest and to improve patient access to high quality healthcare.